I'll take that as Malaysia-first. I'll make a practical source map with links, formats, update frequency, and any gaps where international sources could help.
Searched 15 websites, read 5 web pages, and used 3 tools
For a Malaysia-first jobs-market tracker, I'd start with these five sources. I tested the two OpenDOSM APIs and their CSV downloads—all four responded successfully.
Source
Best use
Format / frequency
OpenDOSM: national labour force
Employment, unemployment, participation rate, and employment-to-population ratio
JSON API, CSV, Parquet / monthly. Licensed CC BY 4.0. Monthly Labour Force Statistics
OpenDOSM: labour force by state
Compare employment and unemployment across Malaysian states
JSON API, CSV, Parquet / quarterly. Licensed CC BY 4.0. Quarterly Labour Force Statistics by State
DOSM Job Market Insights
Online-ad demand by occupation and economic activity
Quarterly releases and downloadable reports. I found public aggregate reports, but did not confirm an open individual-posting API. DOSM Job Market Insights
DOSM Employment Statistics
Jobs, filled positions, vacancies, and jobs created by industry and skill category
Quarterly publication. Use this separately from online-ad counts: the measures describe different things. DOSM Employment Statistics
TalentCorp MyCOL
Identify occupations facing talent shortages
Periodic research reports; the page includes the 2024/2025 edition. Useful for interpreting demand, rather than measuring weekly posting
